The following is a brief list of free resources, which you can use to record and edit your own videos for use in your classroom. Most of these companies offer a free version of their software, with an option to purchase an enhanced version. If you have a webcam (built-in or external), review the features and test its capability before downloading additional software. Chances are, you have the necessary resources already installed on your computer. Additional options can be located by conducting a web search.
